MANİSA

History

Manisa -the City of Sultans- is an attractive, modern city with a far-reaching past in the Aegean Region of Anatolia. Its history goes back to 500 BC but the first known settlements date back to the 14th century BC.

Natural, historical and cultural values

Mesir Paste Tradition (Mesir Macunu in Turkish) is a very old tradition dating back to almost 500 years. It was started as a medicine invention during the Ottoman period which later became an important part of local festival in the city. In 2012, Mesir Paste has entered to the UNESCO's Representative List of the Intangible Cultural Heritage of Humanity. The Spilos Mountain National Park is a cool spot with a richly forested area, hot springs and profusion of flowers, especially wild tulips known as Anemon. Sardis, Salihli, the ancient capital of Lydia, is one of the most remarkable sightseeing areas of Türkiye.

Industry

Manisa, The Shining Center of Rising Opportunities, is a major industry hub in the region. it is now more promising than ever with respect to the increasing demand tor advanced technology and high value-added production. Manisa has succeeded in industrial production with support of the agricultural processing and related activities (production of flour and olive oil, Sultana raisins, basic textiles, leather goods, agricultural tools and instruments, cotton ginning). The choice of Manisa as production base in the 1980s by the Turkish consumer electronics and white goods giant Vestel was an important boost tor the present-day level of sophistication. Today Manisa's economic activities are far from being confined to a sole company. Manisa registered in FDI in 2004 and well-known businesses such as Italian white goods company Indesit, German electrical goods company Bosch, UK packaging company Rexam and Imperial Tobacco of the UK and Italian giant Ferrero have invested in Manisa. Manisa has been crowned, thanks to its advantageous and opportunities for investments, by taking awards from several international press and institutions in different times.
